PUBLISH NAMES OF HOSPITAL GIVERS

Supporters of Building Fund For New Hospital Will Be Given Proper Credit During Campaign To Get $150,000 For Building

CAMPAIGN STARTS TONIGHT

All Workers Enlisted To Serve On the Teams, Including the Executive Committee, Will Dine This Evening At Six O'Clock In Elks Club

Who the subscribers are in the hospital campaign and how much each has given to the hospital building fund will be made public at the proper time during the campaign which starts tonight, according to an announcement this morning at the office of the hospital building fund campaign in the Municipal building

General Chairman Kerfoot W. Daly of the campaign has taken the position throughout the work done by the executive committee on organizing and formulating policies for the campaign, that the hospital drive was a public matter, that there was nothing secret about it, and that everyone was entitled to have full knowledge on any point if they so desire. This policy, it is announced, will extend to the publication of the subscribers and the amounts of their gifts.

The campaign which opens tonight with a dinner at the Elks club at 6:00, is for $150,000 or more to secure a building fund for a new and fireproof up-to-date hospital with modern equipment, to be located at Lock No. 4.

The need for the new hospital has been made imperative by the fact that all health authorities, including local doctors and the State Department of Health officials have for years been proclaiming the inadequacy, the lack of room and the handicap of poor facilities in the Charleroi-Monessen hospital as it is now.

The present hospital building is only a frame structure, formerly a private residence. It was made into a hospital from the urgent need for a hospital at the start over a generation ago and has never been improved since. The building is a fire trap, is understaffed and it is declared on good authority that in no town the size of Charleroi in Pennsylvania, is there in existence poorer hospital facilities for so large a population.

Experts on hospitals, including the State Department, estimate that in an industrial center like Charleroi and environs, there should be one hospital bed for every 200 population. Charleroi is in the embarrassing and seriously handicapped position at present of having only one bed for every 3773 of population.

The result of this is that certain classes of residents are forced to use hospitals in distant cities. Those who are able to afford such service can do this, but the great bulk of the population in the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital district, conservatively estimated at 83,000 persons, must depend on the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital for any hospital care and treatment their sickness and injuries may require.

This does not take into consideration, it is pointed out, that the well-to-do patients who go to other cities, have their lives endangered by not being able to get quicker treatment. In other words, it is dangerous in cases of the larger majority of accidents and in a good many cases of sickness to take a patient by motor or train on a long trip to Pittsburgh or elsewhere before they can be operated on and receive the proper technical care.

Chairman Daly has repeatedly pointed out in this campaign that Charleroi has as good doctors, surgeons and dentists as anyone could want, but that they are seriously handicapped in many cases of diagnosis and highest classes of treatment because of not having modern hospital facilities.

"The proposed new hospital building is so important and so far reaching in it's scope of usefulness for this community," declared Chairman Daly, "that the executive committee has decided to invite all of the towns surrounding Charleroi to participate in the hospital building fund campaign, because this new hospital when completed will be the nearest to them."

The meeting this evening at the Elks club will be for all of the workers both in Charleroi and adjoining towns and will be for the purpose of giving all workers instructions before they start to work tomorrow morning to secure subscriptions for the hospital building fund.

It is hoped to raise at least $150,000 and Chairman Daly and all members of the hospital board of directors have several times pointed out that at least $200,000 to $250,000 should be raised in order to build the kind of a hospital Charleroi should have, as large a building as the district now needs, and also equip it so far as the larger features of hospital layout are concerned.

It is emphasized by several of the hospital leaders that the hospital will be secured now or it is a serious question whether or not it ever will be secured.

MAN IS HELD FOR COURT CHARGED EXTORTION ATTEMPT

Greensburg, August 4. Following a hearing before a justice of the peace, Charles A. Nowheld of Greensburg, was held for court trial charged with an attempt to extort $6,000 from A. Huff, president of the State Deposit and Trust company.

Nowheld, according to Mr. Huff, threatened to kill him and his entire family unless he paid the money.

WOMAN HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Mrs. Ellen Niland of West Brownsville was probably fatally injured shortly after 1 p. m., Saturday, when an automobile in which she was riding collided with a work car of Monongahela West Penn Public Service Co., at the Edgemont crossing on the outskirts of Fairmont, West Virginia. W. E. Gregg, who was driving, and [illegible] were less seriously injured. The three were rushed to a hospital.

Gregg suffered a fracture of the left leg and right arm and Mrs. Gregg a fracture of the right arm.

The automobile was traveling at such a high rate of speed that the impact knocked the front truck of the street car from the rails, and became locked to the front end of the car, which dragged it along, crushing the machine against a telephone pole. It was demolished.

The members of the two families were returning home from a three weeks' trip through Virginia, Tennessee and Georgia.

Second Negro Dies Of Wounds—Cratty Avenged

Robert Marshall, aged about 25, the second negro responsible for the death of Constable William A. O. Cratty of North Charleroi official is thus in the deaths of both his colored assailants, avenged.

Of Mr. Cratty's death in a short time after the shooting in the Charleroi-Monessen hospital the readers of the Mail are familiar. Retribution overtook both the negroes, for William Smith, the other colored man, died in the Memorial hospital, Monongahela. He was shot just above the heart.

The fight between the colored men and the officer occurred when Mr. Cratty attempted to place them under arrest on the steps of the toll house at the Charleroi-Monessen bridge.

Marshall was in the local hospital for some time, but his condition improving, he was taken to the hospital at Washington. This was by order of District Attorney Howard W. Hughes.

FIREMEN'S PARADE HELD THIS EVENING

MILLIONS TO ASSIST THE LAFOLLETTE TICKET

Atlantic City, N. J., August 4. — A huge political organization with 30,000 campaign committees, hundreds of speakers, and 3,000,000 active workers will sweep the nation this fall in behalf of the presidential candidacy of Robert M. LaFollette, the independent

This unprecedented offensive was decided upon by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor here today in a session devoted to arranging complete details of political organization.

Samuel Gompers, veteran labor leader, will be in active control of the movement, which he believes "will prove the biggest political undertaking yet attempted by labor in this country."

Gala Event of the Bazaar Being Given By the North Charleroi Fire Department Tonight — Companies Expected To Take Part

LINE OF MARCH PLANNED

Parade Will Be Headed By Burgess And Borough Council And Will Form At 7:30 O'Clock—Expected That Three or Four Bands Will Be Present

This evening will be the gala night for the North Charleroi firemen, in that after a successful fag-week ending, in which great crowds thronged Coyle's field, tonight will see the big parade—and incidentally, Jupiter Pluvius giving his sanction—the banner night of the bazaar. It is expected that the largest crowd ever seen on Coyle's field will assemble there this evening and enjoy the various amenities incident to the bazaar.

It is anticipated that 14 fire departments will take part in the parade, as follows: North Charleroi, Monongahela, Donora, Monessen, West Newton, Belle Vernon, North Belle Vernon, Brownsville, South Brownsville, West Brownsville, Fredericktown, Bentleyville, Charleroi and Ford City. The line will be formed in Railroad street and move south in McKean avenue to Third street, Charleroi; up Third street in this borough to Fallowfield; Fallowfield to Lincoln, Lincoln avenue to Coyle field. It will be headed by the North Charleroi burgess and borough council, and will start promptly at 7:30 o'clock. There will be three or four bands in the parade—possibly more, as it is not certain just how many of the visiting departments will bring bands.

There will be the usual [illegible] actions at the field, and good order, as has been prevalent throughout, will be maintained, with the Boy Scouts assisting the local and special officers in police duty.

Dozen Automobiles And Forty Boys Leave Today To Advertise Sales' Days

With the advent of Dollar Day sales tomorrow, to continue through Wednesday inclusive, Charleroi merchants this morning formally fired the first big gun in the big sales days. A dozen machines and 40 boys were taken in automobiles to the various boroughs and cities and trade centers to distribute circulars descriptive of the bargainst offered, while fully a dozen boys are distributing circulars in Charleroi and North Charleroi.

Charleroi merchants expect great crowds at their stores each day of the two-days' sale. They have attractively displayed their goods in the interior of their places of business and the show windows evidence the artist hand. That they will have the biggest Sales days in the history of Sales days as reflects Charleroi, is practically assured; certain it is that those who take advantage of these big days are to reap the major portion of the benefits accruing from their giving.

GERMANS LEAVE FOR LONDON

Berlin, August 4.—Germany's delegation to the allied reparations conference in London, which has agreed on application of the Dawes plan for settlement of the reparations problem, left for the British capital at 11 a. m. today.

The delegation is headed by Chancellor Marx and Foreign Minister Stresemann, who had a long talk with Charles Evans Hughes, the American secretary of state, here Sunday.

Hopes that a settlement of the entire post war situation may be near, ran high as officials bade the delegates good bye.

ADJOURNED MEETING OF NORTH CHARLEROI BODY

There will be an adjourned meeting of North Charleroi Borough council tomorrow evening, the objective of the session being the election of a policeman to succeed the late William A. O. Cratty.

GERMANS ENJOY FISHING IN OHIO

A number of Charleroi firemen left Charleroi Saturday night for Fine Lake, Ohio, where they spent the time in fishing. They returned last night and report an enjoyable and successful trip. Those who were in the number were William, Henry and Charles Lowstuter, Ralph Anthony, Robert Coulter, Avril P. Snow, Wilbur Balmer and Carl McGuire.

AGED SCENERY HILL MAN DEAD

Henry Wesley Hildebrand, aged 78 years and seven months, died at his home at Scenery Hill Saturday morning at 10:45 o'clock of a complication of diseases. A son of the late Demas and Margaret Keys Hildebrand he was a life long resident of North Bethlehem township. He was an active member of the Bethlehem Lutheran church.

Mr Hildebrand was twice married, his first wife being Katherine Wonsettler. To this union two sons were born: Finley W., who died September 29, 1923, and William M., who survives, at home. His second wife, who was Emma Grable, survives. Two sisters, Mrs. Carrie Fentz and Mrs. Lou Doak of Indiana state also survive.

Funeral services will be held at the late home Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in charge of Rev. I. Noble Dundore. Interment will be in the Bethlehem Lutheran cemetery.

CRIME CLAIMED TO BE OF A SCIENTIFIC CLIMAX

Criminal Court Room, Chicago, August 4. — Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb murdered 14-year-old Robert Franks because they could not help themselves. The crime was the scientific climax and result of their boyhood impressions.

This is essentially the theory which Dr. William Healy of Boston prepared to expound as he took the witness stand for the defense before Judge John R. Caverly today. Dr. Healy is the second of medical witnesses placed on the stand by the defense in an effort to save the youthful slayers from the gallows.

Following the testimony of Dr. William A White, of Washington, who said Leopold and Loeb lived in the "land of dreams and unrealities," Dr. Healy will attempt to show by scientific diagrams that the boys "grew up" in crime and followed a path from which they could not depart His testimony will be more specific than the "phantasy life" story related by Dr. White, but will be built upon the foundation laid by the Washington alienist.

Monessen Man Killed When Thrown From Car Against Telephone Pole

Irwin Brown, aged 47, a resident of Monessen for the past 10 years, was instantly killed at 5:30 yesterday afternoon when the Moon touring car in which he was riding hit a telegraph pole on the Perryopolis-Star Junction road.

Brown, together with Mrs. Brown, their three children, Kenneth, Wanda and Jack, his brother Anzi Brown, and niece, Miss Lottie Brown, were returning from Uniontown, where they had been visiting with relatives. Mrs. Brown was at the wheel, while her son, Kenneth, who was sitting at her side, was feeding the gas. Mrs. Brown was just learning to drive the car and in some manner lost control, the car turning off the road into a ditch Mr. Brown was sitting in the rear seat, holding his little daughter Wanda. When the car left the road, Wanda was thrown from the car, onto the road. Her father made an effort to rescue her and leaned out of the car, just as they neared a telegraph pole. His head struck the pole with such terrific force, that injuries were mortal. The car continued down the road and struck another pole, slightly injuring all the occupants. They were picked up by passersby and the injured members of the party taken to a nearby house, while the body of Brown was taken to Monessen.

Mr. Brown was employed at the Pittsburgh Steel Coal mine of Monessen, and was a well-known resident of that place He is survived by his widow and six children, Kenneth, Wanda, Jack and Donald at home, and Irwin, Jr., and Mrs. Edward Black of Monessen. Funeral services will be held from his late residence, Pyrol Path, Monessen, Wednesday afternoon, with interment in the Monongahela cemetery.

TWO OF UNCLE SAM'S BIRD MEN SAFE IN ICELAND

Aboard U. S. S. Richmond, enroute to Transgevaard, Faroe Islands, August 4.—Two of America's around-the-world aviators were safe in Hornafjord, Iceland, today, while the third, Lieutenant Leigh Wade, is aboard the cruiser Richmond out of the running after an accident.

Lieut. Eric Nelson, first of the airmen to reach Iceland, completed his flight without mishap Saturday when his comrades, Lieuts. Lowell Smith, flight commander, and Lieut. Wade, were forced to return to Houton Bay, Orkney Islands, by a dense fog.

Smith and Wade hopped off yesterday to join the leading flyer and Smith made the Iceland port after being buffeted by heavy storms. Wade was forced down by motor trouble and his plane so badly damaged he probably will not be able to continue the world flight.

The Richmond is towing his plane into the Faroe Islands this morning.

AUXILIARY OF A. O. H. TO PICNIC ON WEDNESDAY

The Ladies Auxiliary of the A. O. H. will hold their annual picnic at Eldora park, Wednesday, August 6. A large number of members are expected to turn out with well-filled baskets.

SQUIRE SMITH PAYS HIS RESPECTS TO DEAD UNCLE

Justice of Peace J. B. Smith was in Pittsburgh yesterday paying his last respects to his uncle, Harry Shanabopgh, aged 50, of 1451 Hillsdale avenue, Dormont, who was drowned in the Monongahela river late Thursday when he leaped into the river, fearing that he would be caught under a barge when it threatened to overturn at the drydock of the Iron City Sand company, foot of South Twenty-second street, Pittsburgh. Shanabough's body was recovered 20 minutes later by Adolph Lowe, foreman. The workmen were moving the barge into drydock for repairs, when a block slipped and it appeared that the barge would overturn. Funeral services will take place today.

AGED MAN KILLED; AUTO LOSES WHEEL

[illegible], New York, August 4— Harry E. Emery, aged 74, was instantly killed and Briggi Milliken, 23 both of Pittsburgh, possibly fatally injured, when the automobile in which they were driving lost a wheel and turned turtle in a ditch near Fredona at noon today.

Emery's wife and Milliken's mother and three brothers were riding in a second car half a mile behind. They brought the injured motorists to a hospital in the city.

LOOKING AT GUN PROVES DISASTROUS

Peter Camadzen, aged 50 and his wife, Mary, aged 45, were removed to the Memorial hospital at Monongahela, from their home near the Mongah mine, below Monongahela, at midnight Saturday, suffering from revolver wounds, received when Camadzen was inspecting a .38-calibre automatic revolver and it was accidentally discharged. The ball passed through the index finger of Camadzen's left hand and struck his wife in the abdomen.

Police and physicians received a call to the Camadzen home an hour after the shooting occurred. It is likely Camadzen's mutilated finger will be removed. The accident occurred when a friend of Camadzen's came to his house shortly before midnight to show him an automatic revolver which [illegible] ing to a statement to the police, took the weapon in his hand after the owner removed the cartridge clip, but unknowingly had left onne shell in the chamber. He was examining the [illegible] while his wife was seated at a table facing Camadzen. He pulled the trigger. Following the accidental shooting the owner of the gun disappeared and could not be located by police yesterday.

DEMARCO WILL MEET DICK CONLON AT BRADDOCK AUGUST 15

Cuddy DeMarco and Dickie Conlon are to have another whirl in the feud which has been burning since they met in McKeesport last winter. Looking for a popular card at top off the benefit program which is to be staged for the Braddock Elks baseball club on August 15 at Edgar Thomson Park, Promoter Jake Gildstein Saturday signed the two lightweights. It will likely be of more interest than either of the previous ones, as Conlon's recent showing in Charleroi indicates that the Altoona blonde is at the top of his form and ready to square his other performances.

One eight-round semi-final, bringing together Young Sailor of Charleroi who boxed Conlon last week, and K. O. Ferry, the popular, aggressive McKeesport lightweight, and two six-rounders will fill out the card. Tommy Crowley of the Southside and Young Dutney of Charleroi will meet in the second bout, while the first one is yet to be arranged.

DeMarco, who is recognized as the leader among local lightweights, has been resting since his victory over Jack Bernstein. Conlon is satisfied that he is in good enough shape, and during the next two weeks will devote his time trying to fugure a way to break down the defense with which DeMarco baffled him in their previous meetings.

The ball park, where the fight is to be held, is considered one of the finest in Western Pennsylvania, and arrangements are being made to take care of a great crowd, the class of the card and the benefit feature being popular in the Braddock section.

DINNER MATCH BETWEEN CLUBS ON WEDNESDAY

A dinner match will be played between the Monongahela Valley Country club and the Nemacolin Country club, to be pulled off at the grounds of the latter-named Wednesday afternoon, August 6, at 1 o'clock.

First prize for the Saturday afternoon handicap was won by Dr. J. A. Sprowls, of Donora; C. W. Stinson, second; J. A. Newhart, third; J. A. Eyman, fourth; J. H. Derr, fifth; J. E. Burke, sixth; A. G. Buseman, seventh; G. S. Nicholas, eighth.

Ancient Heathen Deity

Beelzebub was a heathen deity to whom the Jews ascribed the sovereignty of the evil spirits, calling him the "prince of the devils" (Matthew XII, 24). Beelzebub—or more correctly Beelzebul—is the name by which the god Baal was worshiped by the Ekronites. The word meant "lord of flies," it being the office of this deity to protect his worshipers from the flies and gnats with which Ekron was infested. As the Jews regarded all heathen deities as devils, the name "Beelzebub" was applied by them to the chief of the demons. Milton, however, in "Paradise Lost," makes Beelzebub second in power to Satan.—Kansas City Star.

Shark's Hide Valuable

A valuable part of the man-eating shark is the skin. The thin outer skin is removed by a secret process, and is used by cabinet-makers for giving polish to hard woods, ivory and so on.

The inner skin is tanned so carefully that it eventually yields a waterproof, non-cracking leather. Different parts of the skin give different shades of color, and the tanning process succeeds in preserving these dark greens and browns so that shoes, traveling bags, purses, belts and similar articles made of the skin have quite a hand some appearance.

In proportion to population, Japan leads all other countries in the number of divorces.

With a recruit hurler registering his eighth successive victory and incidentally chasing the jinx of the Burleigh Grimes' spitter, the Pirates, minus Manager McKechnie, who has been indefinitely suspended, and Catcher Earl Smith, who is nursing severe charley horses, broke loose in their hitting fury in the ninth inning at Brooklyn yesterday, hammered across four runs and beat the robins 5-2. It was Emil Yde who turned the trick and kept clean the record of victories has has hung up since taking his place as a regular.

Incidentally the Pirates became runnersup to the league leading Giants, hopping into second place as the Cubs were being beaten at the Polo Grounds. Johnny Gooch went behind the bat, and although Smith was in harness and ready to go in, it was deemed wise to give the hard worked receiver a rest in apprreciation for the work he has done since joining the club and also to get the bench warming kinks out of Gooch's muscles. Curler despite a wretched night as the result of being knocked cold by Frankie Frisch in the final game of the Giant series, went into left field, while Barnhart took up the burden in right and although Barney had little to do on the defense, it was his trusty clug which started the final inning rally which eventually led to the eighth victory out of nine games played since leaving home.

Charleroi Again Defeats Monessen Independents; Game Loosely Played

For the second time this season, both contests being played on the Charleroi grounds, the Charleroi Independents, on Saturday afternoon, defeated the Monessen Legion club, the score being 4-3. Beatty was opposed by McIlvaine in the box.

From the score, those who did not see the game, would judge that on account of its closeness, the contest was well played; but this conclusion is far from the facts. In the first inning Charleroi presented Monessen with two runs on a bum throw by Krosnoff in an attempt to make a double play, the ball rolling to the fence through "Bill" Phillips. For four innings McIlvaine held the locals in the hollow of his hand, and it looked as though he might register a shutout. Up to this time he was given good support, and Charleroi could do little with his benders, but from the fourth to the end of the game, the locals began to solve McIlvaine's delivery, but they were aided and abetted by the support accorded him. While Charleroi piled up four errors in the contest, Monessen went them one better by making five, a portion of which were inexcusable.

The contest was really a battle between the pitchers, Beatty allowing but three hits and McIlvaine five. With perfect support the game would probably have gone into extra innings.

For Charleroi, aside from Beatty's pitching, the features were the third base play of Smith, and the stellar stops made by Yengst, the new second baseman, who accounted with his single for two of Charleroi's four runs, and a catch by Consonery in right. There were no outstanding features on Monessen's part aside from the twirling of McIlvaine, who proved that despite his years he has the class and can beat the majority of teams opposing him with good support. -to keep them air-tight

ROW on row of beautifully packed jars! What a gratifying show they make on your storeroom shelves.

But what assurance have you that your jar rubbers will safeguard them through the weeks and months to come?

Every jar rubber must do two important things if it is to make an air-tight seal. It must first stretch and then it must "set."

It must stretch enough to pass easily over the neck of the jar. Too much stretch robs it of the ability to snap back into place—to "set."

Only if the rubber will "set" firmly can you be sure of a permanent air-tight seal.

Today you can buy jar rubbers already tested for stretch and "set." For months in its own great laboratories the United States Rubber Company worked to develop a superior jar rubber and in its "U.S." brand it offers you rubbers that meet the most rigid test.

Ask your dealer for "U.S." Jar Rubbers—tested to keep your pack safe. In red and white rubber, plain or double-lipped.

NEW CHANGE-MAKING MACHINE IN NEW YORK SUBWAY

President Frank Hedley, of the Interborough Rapid Transit Corporation, demonstrating the new change-making machine just installed in the 77th Street Station of the Lexington Avenue Subway. In connection with the nickel-in-the-slot turnstiles installed a year or so ago, the new machine will make entrance to the subway an entirely automatic affair. They are electrically operated and will change any coin from a dime to half a dollar, detecting and rejecting any spurious coins and never short-changing the hurrying train-catcher.

AUGUST 5th and 6th == 45 MERCHANTS CO-OPERATING BIGGER AND BETTER BARGAINS

TONIGHT!

Giving their time without pay in any way, 350 workers for the new hospital building, will meet tonight at six for dinner in the Elks Club.

From that hour forth, the drive is on. When they call, listen to their story. They have a big job ahead of them. If you are not working yourself, cooperate with them by giving them an audience.

Remember that in addition to giving themselves, as they are going to ask you to do, they are giving their time for the good of the community.

Whether $150,000 is secured and the new hospital is assured, is up to you. The volunteer salesmen are doing their part.

This week everyone must settle the question of--Dollars or lives.

LAFOLLETTE ROARS GENTLY.

LaFollette's platform, like too many platforms, appears to be designed as a catch-all for voters rather than as a clear statement of boldly decisive policy—although it bids especially for the German and Irish vote. In his speech of acceptance LaFollette boasted that he "never avoided or evaded issues" and "would not do so now," yet his platform, though declaring that war should be outlawetd, is silent on both the League of Nations and the World Court. It says nothing about prohibition, and, like the Republican platform, avoids mention of the Ku Klux Klan. The Democrats also evaded this issue at the last, but they at least boldly fought over it on the convention floor, finally deciding by the narrowest of majorities not to mention the Klan by name. An anti-Klan plank was denied discussion even in LaFollette's resolution committee, his "keynoter" charging that Underwood brought the Klan fight to Madison Square Garden at the behest of Wall street in order to disrupt the Democratic party. The obvious moral of this tale is that LaFollette's party is too shrewd and too lacking in boldness to touch this particular kind of dynamite.

Of course LaFollette demands public ownership of railroads. He also requires the "democratic operation" thereof—whatever that may mean. He calls for withdrawal of the power of the courts to nullify legislation, the abolition of injunctions in labor disputes, an elective Federal judiciary, and disapproves of the Federal Reserve Board. But all these are pale issues at the moment. His declaration against "financial imperialists" and "oil monopolists" is as safely general as his promised relief to farmers is vague. His platform is refreshingly brief, but this is to be accounted for by its significant omissions and evasive generalities.

GOOD MELODRAMA

Of cheap and artificially sensational melodrama, from the point of view of art, the stage is at its worst. But there is a form of melodrama that is convincing and powerful in its appeal because it is true to life. It has thrill in its elements of danger and conflict and brings satisfaction with the final escape from these. Why should not a master's melodrama well acted entertain a highly intelligent audience? Certain London critics having objected to the staging of "The Green Goddess" at the St. James Theatre, William Archer responded with some pointed remarks in defense of his own play and of melodrama in general.

Mr. Archer describes melodrama as "a picturesque play, containing the elements of tragedy, but ending as a rule in the defeat of the villain." When a melodrama is as good as "The Green Goddess" has proved itself to be, why, he asks, is it not a good play? The verdict of the public during its long run is that it is a good play; why, therefore, is it not fit to be presented in an aristocratic play-house? Melodrama has not until recently been associated with the name of William Archer, who was the original champion and tanspator of Ibsen. The story goes that, after studying plays for many years, and arriving finally at complete knowledge of what the public likes, in his old age he deliberately put together in "The Green Goddess" all the elements that captivate an audience. However that may be, his melodrama, written with masterly craftsmanship, after long experience and wide knowledge, has achieved phenomenal success.

Brothers Built Terrace

Adelphi terrace, facing the Thames, in London, received its name from the fact that the Adam brothers, John Robert, James and William, built it about 1768. Adelphi (adelphoi) is a Greek word which means brothers.

Golfer Killed

A sliced drive caused the death of Robert Jouve, cadet in the French mercantile marine, at Biarritz. His golf ball lodged on the side of a steep hill, and when he tried to recover it he slipped and fell to his death.

Elf Gave to Fijians Fire-Walking Success

The native version of the origin of the "fire walking" ceremony is that in the distant past a Fijian traveling in the bush met an elf, whom he suspected of being an evil spirit, says the Detroit News.

The native captured this supernatural creature and threatened him. To save himself the elf offered as a gift any power the native chose. The Fijian chose and was granted the ability to handle or walk through fire unharmed, which power has descended to members of his family even to this day.

The "fire walking" itself is an interesting ceremony performed by natives. So far as observers have been able to ascertain the performers walk barefoot and unharmed on stones which are virtually red hot, having been heated for hours in a fire pit. Afterward leaves, brush and bits of wood are thrown over the rocks, the heat of the latter being evidenced by the smoke or flame which immediately bursts forth.

New York Had Public Baths Back in 1824

In the New York city directory of 1824 there was a page advertisement [illegible] street, near Broadway," and it was headed by a picture of a portable tub large enough in which an adult person could completely immerse, and above this cut was "Marble and Tin," which would seem to indicate that already there were styles in tubs, and they were both stationary and portable.

The advertisement continued as follows: "Has been newly painted, cleansed and much improved; marble tubs and new pipes introduced and baths of any temperature furnished at the shortest notice, from sunrise until 10 o'clock p. m., throughout the year. Warm rooms during the winter. Bathing tubs to let for the convenience of those who cannot visit the bath.

"For the accommodation of those afflicted with eruptions of the skin and chronic complaints a fumigating apparatus has been erected."

Last of Great Rulers

The title of great mogul was given the chiefs of the Mogul empire, founded in Hindustan in 1525, A. D., by Baber, a descendant of Tamerlane, the famous Mongol conqueror.

For more than two centuries the Mongol emperors ruled India and lived in great magnificence at Delhi, which continued to be their capital until the reign of Akbar (1555-1605), when it was transferred to Agra, says the Detroit News. They were finally conquered by the English and in 1806 Shah Alium, the last person to whom the title of "great mogul" rightly belonged, having died, the Mogul empire ceased to exist.

The religion of the Moguls was Mohammedan, but, although introduced by them into India, it was never accepted by the native Hindus.

Bad Case

A Hindu father received the following letter: "Dear Sir: For some remote time to past a secret passion has firing my bosom internally with loving for your daughter. I have navigated every channel in the magnitude of my extensive jurisdiction to cruelly smother the growing love-knot that is being constructed in my within side, but the humid lamp of affection trimmed by Cupid's productive hand still nourishes my love-sickened heart. My educational capabilities have abandoned me and here I now cling to those lovely long tresses of your much-courted daughter like a marine ship wrecked on the rock of love."—Boston Transcript.

Crusoe's Island

Prolonged steamship trips are more popular than ever and not a few are announcing tours which include a visit to San Fernandez island, the traditional scene of Defoe's "Robinson Crusoe." Alexander Selkirk, it will be remembered, was marooned on this island for four years, and his experiences very probably suggested "Crusoe" to Defoe, but the author really put his hero ashore on an island near the mouth of the "great river Orinookoo," which is separated by 10,000 miles of sea water from San Juan Fernandez.

First English Bible

The first complete version of the English Bible was that of Myles Coverdale. It appeared in 1535 and was based on the Swiss-German version published at Zurich in 1524-29. In 1382 there had appeared a version attributed to Wycliffe, but the gospels alone can be identified as the work of Wycliffe himself. The translation of the Old Testament and the Apocrypha is the work of Nicholas de Hereford. The translation of the New Testament by William Tyndale, appeared at Worms in 1525, later editions in 1534-35.—Exchange.

"Blue Sky" Law

Blue sky laws are laws passed to regulate the sale of stocks and bonds by corporations and other organizations. Their purpose is to prevent the public from being defrauded. Such laws were first passed in 1911 in Kansas during a period of speculation. One of the advocates of the blue sky laws declared that many of the promoters, if they got a chance, would "capitalize the blue skies." Hence the name blue sky laws. The majority of states now have such laws.

"CRATERS OF THE MOON" IS UNIQUE

New National Monument Destined to Draw Tourists.

Washington.—Craters of the Moon is the United States' youngest national monument.

On May 2 President Coolidge signed the order setting aside a little-known district in Idaho. It is a wild, colorful region containing one of the most unusual volcanic fields in America. From the twisted brilliant contours of frozen lava fields and crimson cones and the absence of verdure, it takes its official name, "Craters of the Moon National Monument."

Of "Craters of the Moon," lying along the Lincoln highway between Carey and Arco, Idaho, S. W. Limbert writes in a communication to the National Geographic society:

Destined to Draw Tourists.

"Although almost totally unknown at present, this section is destined some day to attract tourists from all America, for its lava flows are as interesting as those of Vesuvius, Mauna Loa or Kilauea.

"The district consists of some 63 volcanic craters, lava and cinder cones, all at present extinct or dormant. The cones rise high, rising in the midst of a belt of craters two or three miles wide and 30 miles long."

The major flows, the Blue Dragon Flow and the Pahoehoe Flow roughly parallel the Lincoln highway and are but two to five miles from it. A wagon trail from the national road goes into the rocky volcanic desert a short way.

"Stretching to the southwest for hour eleven miles we saw perhaps one of the most remarkable lava flows in the world," continues R. W. Limbert, describing the Blue Dragon Flow. Its color is a deep cobalt blue with generally a high gloss, as if the flow had been given a coat of blue varnish. The surface is netted and veined with small cracks, having the appearance of the scales of some prehistoric reptile. It merits the name Blue Dragon, as in many places it has burst through the crevasse of an older flow, and the ropy twists of blue lava spreading out branches, together with its scaled surface, need but little stretch of imagination to suggest the claws and legs of a dragon.

"In appearance the 'Craters of the Moon' flows seem as if they had happened only yesterday, but in reality the latest probably occurred about 150 or possibly 200 years ago.

"The total area of the six young lava flows is about 300 square miles while that extending above and below this point along the Snake river plains reaches the astounding total of approximately 27,000 square miles."

Of the 300 square miles of lava desert, some forty square miles have been set aside by President Coolidge "Craters of the Moon National Monument" is about 150 miles southwest of Yellowstone National park.

"Picture yourself standing in some vast amphitheater whose towering walls are a riot of yellow, green, orange, brown and black, with brick red and vermilion predominating," Mr. Limbert writes in describing the district. "Imagine, too, an awesome, enveloping silence. I noticed that at places we had nothing to say. It was little wonder the Indians feared and shunned the region.

An Amphitheater Cave.

"East of the Bridge of Tears we came to the entrance of what we afterwards decided to call Amphitheater cave. Climbing down, we found ourselves on the east side of a room some 0 feet wide and 60 feet long, with a omed ceiling 20 feet high. As we sat n the north side, we beheld to the outh a perfect stage. The floor was ouble, the lower section being about ight feet lower than the top of the oor above, which was 15 feet wide. t was almost an exact model of a odern theater. At the top of the ome the roof had caved in, leaving a ircular skylight six inches in diamter.

"By lining flights of doves, five wa-er holes were located in old volcanic lowholes or fumaroles. Dipping up upful of water we were astonished find it icy cold, so cold in fact, hat it hurt our teeth, and we put the up down on the hot rocks to warm. his phenomenon can only be accounted for by the supposition that it was he seepage water from one of the ice aves, of which we found a number. he water hole was covered with an ich coat of drowned hornets that had een chilled and had fallen in. The ater underneath was pure and sweet e called this Yellow Jacket water ole."

Sign Accuses Debtors

Hagerstown, Md.—After being sold ut at a sheriff's sale because of his ailure to meet his outstanding bills, oseph I. Loschbaugh, a butcher, of his city, posted a sign on his front oor, accusing those who owed him oney of causing his failure. The ign read: "These people forced me nto bankruptcy." Below was a list f names, some of them prominent ousewives of Hagerstown.

Amnesia Victim Recovers

Corning, N. Y.—Earl Davis, a victime of amnesia, has found his mother and his full name here after a five-ear search that took him throughout his country. His mind was affected y an injury received in Detroit nine ears ago. Despite four years of hospital treatment, he was unable to establish his complete identity when he as dismissed.

SEARCH GOBI DESERT FOR GARDEN OF EDEN

Discoverer of Dinosaur Eggs Plans New Expedition.

New York.—Roy Chapman Andrews, leader of the American Museum of Natural History expedition which discovered the only known fossils of dinosaur eggs, will sail for Mongolia to prepare for the reception of a party of scientists who next fall will invade that graveyard of mastodons, the Gobi desert, in search of the "Garden of Eden."

The 1924 expedition expects to remain abeld for five years and will exhaust every effort toward excavating the bones of the earliest man in support of the theory that he first trod earth in what now is the desolate Gobi desert, a verdant paradise 10,000,000 to 25,000,000 years old.

Headed by Mr. Andrews, the party will include 15 scientists who are acknowledged leaders in their respective fields. There will be Walter Granger, chief paleontologist; Charles P. Berkey, chief geologist; James P. Chapin chief ornithologist; J. J. Robert, chief topographer; N. C. Nelson, chief archeologist; Ralph Chaney, chief botanist; J. B. Shackleford, chief cinematographer; S. Bayard Colgate, chief of arms.

Five of the party were members of the three-year expedition which emerged from Mongolia laden with the most valuable collection of prehistoric bones and fossils known to paleontologic history.

Mr. Andrews is confident that the cradle birthplace of man, the spot on earth where human first was evolved from an animal, will be found in the Gobi desert, perhaps not by this expedition, he says, but some time soon, surely.

The Gobi desert proved a veritable treasure trove for the last expedition.

Makes New Discovery in Use of Microscope

Dr. N. A. Cobb, technologist of the United States Department of Agriculture, who has discovered that by the use of a piece of glass he can invoke the aid of the sun in making microscopic studies of minute objects. Until this glass was used, the sun blurred instead of clarified an object under the microscope.

French Laws Encourage Heads of Large Families

Paris.—The following measures, most of them very recent, are provided by law for the aid of large families in France: Reduction of various taxes in proportion to the size of the family; lower rents in the so-called "cheap houses" and priority in the assignment of dwellings in those houses; special facilities in acquiring rural property on a small scale; reduction of the compulsory military service by one year in the case of boys who are the oldest of five children; reduction in railroad fare; scholarships in proportion to size of family; financial aid from the national government for each child under one year of age, beginning with the fourth; assistance to women in confinement; so-called "birth premiums;" payment of salaries to civil employees of the national, departmental and municipal military profession in proportion to the number of children in their families.

Medals are to be given to mothers of large families, having been provided for by a recent enactment.

Hens Know Mess Call; Cause Thief's Arrest

Chanute, Kan.—Hens that had been trained to answer the whistled "mess call" led to the arrest of a man here, who was charged with raiding chicken roosts. Investigations first led to Iola, and four Chanute men went there in an attempt to identify their chickens. W. L. Markham offered to submit his whistle test and the poultry house owner agreed.

Markham went into the pen where several hundred chickens were at large and began whistling. Twenty-four hens ran eagerly to him. The poultry dealer remembered the motor license number of the man who sold the chickens to him and his arrest followed. He pleaded not guilty and was bound over to the District court for trial.

Distilled Wisdom in Aged Irish Proverbs

"The proverbs of a nation are the distilled wit of generations of its people, and the true wit of the race is oftentimes in proportion to the truth and beauty of its proverbs," says Seumas MacManus, who points out, according to the Montreal Herald, that the sayings of the Irish are singularly rich in poetry, philosophy, satire and wisdom.

"The silent mouth is melodious," is an Irish proverb of poetic beauty.

"Our eyes should be blind in the abode of another," and "If the best man's thoughts were written on his forehead, he would wear his hat down over his eyes," inculcate charity in judging others.

"God never shuts one door but He opens two," and "Hope is the physician of every misery," express the optimism of the race.

"Fierceness is often hidden under beauty." "There is often anger in a laugh," and "A good dress often hides a deceiver," are other ways of expressing the idea that appearances are sometimes deceiving.

"A man with one eye is a king among blind men." "Without treasure, without friends," and "A heavy purse makes a light heart," show the advantages of possession.

"Look before you leap," and "Don't to buy slates for another man's," are good advice to the improvident.

"Enough is as good as a feast," preaches a sermon on contentment.

Many Countries Supply England With Oranges

We seldom stop to think in England what a wonderful and delicious fruit the orange is. Its "family tree" includes the lemon, the citrus, and the lime, and the first oranges seem to have come from India.

They came to this cold country by way of south Italy, Spain and Portugal, and until recent times, when millions of boxes reach us from California and Queensland, our main supply came from the south of Europe.

The sight of a Queensland or California orange ranch is one to remember, for the orange tree bears blossom and fruit simultaneously. In Europe, where orange growing is an ancient industry, trees are to be seen whose age is reckoned by centuries. The up-to-date colonial orange grower clears his old trees out as soon as they begin to fail and puts young trees in their place.

Many thousands of boxes of oranges arrive at the London docks, not only from the countries already mentioned, but from the Azores, the West Indies, Tangier, Malta, Brazil and many other tropical and subtropical lands, says London Tit-Bits. There are nearly a hundred different varieties of orange, of which the navel orange is the pick. It is one of the triumphs of orange growers that they have evolved a fruit which is seedless.

Lucky

A dentist was called on in a hurry by Jenkinson, who was suffering violently from toothache. The dentist examined the tooth, saw it was badly gone, and said it must come out. So he gave a tremendous yank with his big silver forceps: and the extraction seemed successful; but on closer inspection it was found that a small piece of tooth remained in the swollen and sensitive gum. The dentist went jabbing about for this piece a good while. However, he hadn't much luck.

"Hang it all," he said finally, as he jabbed at the gum in a rather impatient, cross way—"hang it all, I don't seem to feel it."

"No?" said poor Jenkinson, all white and trembling. "You're in luck."

"Poor Man's" Gout

Chronic gout is a lingering malady characterized by deposits of urate of sodium on the joint cartilages at the ends of the bones, especially in the fingers, and often in the ears. It is also marked by an excess of oxalic acid salts in the blood. There is severe pain in one or more of the joints at the time the deposits are forming, and the pain may recur from time to time in the same or in other joints. Frequently the eyes suffer and in some cases the disease attacks the internal organs. Chronic gout is sometimes called "poor man's" gout. Its treatment, which is usually dietetic, should be begun as soon as the trouble is discovered.

Wanted to Get Even

A southern correspondent writes of the pious petition of an old colored preacher in a Georgia settlement: "Lawd," he prayed, "we wants a blessin' for every one 'cept one, en dat is de yaller hound, Sam Johnson, what boarded de railroad train en runned off wid de whole collection what wuz took up ter pay our salary wid Lawd, please make de train jump de track—don't hurt de yuther passengers, but take one leg off fum dat wicked nigger."—Boston Transcript.

Well, What Is It?

Henry Holt knew many of the great figures of half a century ago, and his reminiscences are full of anecdotes of the past and present. "One night at a dinner," he records in his "Garrulities of an Octogenarian Editor," "we heard William Dean Howells declare to St. Gaudens that there is no such thing as genius; whereupon St. Gaudens asked, "What do you call it when you see it?"

INDIAN DANCES LIKE REVIVALS

Ancient Ceremonies Are Mostly Religious in Nature.

Washington, D. C.—Indian ceremonials are rarely understood by other races, and consequently the Indian rites and dances have often been unjustly criticized, says J. N. B. Hewitt of the Smithsonian institution.

The white man is extremely gullible when it comes to believing fantastic tales about the red man. It is no rare occurrence for a witness to appear at a congressional hearing and to testify regarding the evils of Indian dances and later to admit that he has never seen the objectionable rites.

Furthermore, the white man must plead guilty to a lack of sympathetic imagination when he observes the Indian. Aside from some ethnologists, people who do attend Indian ceremonies generally see only the gyrations of painted savages. Sometimes they cannot refrain from showing their amusement and scorn. Sometimes they offend the Indians seriously.

One man who was present at a Navajo snake dance grew righteously indignant at the sight of venomous snakes handled by the dancers, who When one of the reptiles was laid on the ground the visitor impulsively took a soda pop bottle and tried to kill it. The white man was the Indians' guest, but the snake represented some religious symbol to the dancers, and it was for the time being an object of veneration. Guest as he was, the rash outsider jeopardized his life.

Show Reverence to Nature.

Mr. Hewitt says that the ceremonies of the Indian are incorrectly called pagan. No people have held a more reverent attitude toward nature and the Master of Life than the Indians, he says. By their symbolism they built up a system of associations, so that when they saw the full moon or the budding trees, the ripe corn or the forest animals, they thought of the legends and the significance of those things in life. Considering their "lack of advantages" the Indians put into words an astonishing amount of truth regarding their universe.

The Indian regards the tribal rites and all the symbols that goes with them with the same respect that any other race feels toward its religious observances. A typical feast is the Iroquois planting ceremony, which takes place in the spring. The women and girls dramatize the planting processes and sing the songs descriptive of each. Men of the tribe preach and tell the others to treat one another kindly, to avoid lying and gossip, to live peaceably and to be thankful for their blessings.

There is always a feast and dancing at the close of all festivals. They believe that the Master of Life, seeing the people dance, knows that His children are content with what He has done for them, and so He is pleased. It is all the Indians' way of rendering thanksgiving.

Outsiders not knowing the language and symbolism, are apt to conclude that the Indians are holding a gay party, while, as Mr. Hewitt points out, if we compare the occasion to something in our own civilization, it is more accurate to compare it to a religious meeting.

Masks Often Misunderstood.

Use of hideous masks by certain tribes is a typical source of misunderstanding among white people. The masks do not represent the Indians' idea of beauty, as many people believe, but represent the seven winds which bring diseases. Each type of mask suggests the face of the victim of the disease brought by that wind.

On New Year's day masked men go into each wigwam and put out the fire, clean away the ashes and light ceremonially a new fire. This is not a senseless rite. The ashes of the old fire have collected waste materials and germs for some months, and cleaning the fireplace is a health measure.

There is no doubt that some dances of primitive tribes have included practices which the white man regards as reprehensible. The Indians' practice of slashing themselves and one another with knives during the sun dance has been criticized. So has the reckless handling of snakes, both harmless and venomous, at the snake dance. Charges of immorality in connection with some rites have also been made.

The Indians themselves say that few, if any dancers, cut themselves now in the sun dance. The idea back of the cutting was to show courage.

Sixteen officials of a Pueblo tribe recently denied the implication of immoral practices in their ceremonials by saying: "Our dances are drama, opera and poetry. The womanhood of our pueblo are as sacred to us as the symbolic dance we are trying to defend and preserve."

This statement was made in a petition that the ancestral dances might continue without interference from the government.

The Indian is said to be losing his racial identity, but many tribes still cling to the ancestral faith and ceremonies.

Whale Upsets Boats

Milford, Del.—After a battle of nearly an hour during which it upset two boats, a young whale, 16 feet long and weighing about two tons, was caught recently at Cedar Beach, on the Delaware bay shore near Slaughter Beach, and about seven miles east of Milford.

Simplicity Marks Coolidge's Life; President Keeps His Modest Home In Town Where He Rose to Fame

CALVIN COOLIDGE AND HIS FATHER ON THE VERMONT FARM

HALF THIS DOUBLE HOUSE IS COOLIDGE HOME IN NORTHAMPTON, MASS.

Simplicity and reserve are outstanding characteristics of Calvin Coolidge.

Of humble origin, he has risen to the heights along a self-blazed trail, without evidence of pomp or circumstance. Even after he had attained high public office, it was his desire to live modestly as a "plain American" and as an inspiration to those who hear his name.

Always the farmer boy, the nation's Chief Executive retains his keen affection for Vermont's rolling hills and never is he more content than he is at home among his own people.

"Vermont is my birthright," he has said. "Here one gets close to nature, in the mountains, in the brooks, the waters of which hurry to the sea; in the lakes, shining like silver in their green setting; fields tilled not by machinery, but by the brain and hand of man. My folks are happy and contented. They belong to themselves, live within their income and fear no man."

The modesty of Calvin Coolidge has been manifested throughout his career. When he first went from Northampton, Mass., to Boston as an obscure member of the State Legislature, he sought out an inside room on the upper floor of a hotel. There he found the seclusion he loved and the arrangement satisfied his idea of thrift. After his service in the State Legislature, when the citizenry of Massachusetts selected him as a candidate for governor, those who notified him of his nomination found him in this same unpretentious place.

And after his election the family home in Northampton, half of a modest two-family dwelling, renting for thirty-odd dollars a month, was retained. Officialdom might have been somewhat surprised by this decision. The good folk of Northampton who had watched the progress of their adopted son were not. The wooden house was good enough for the Governor and Mrs. Coolidge agreed with him.

Then came the nomination for the Vice-Presidency, and subsequent election to that responsible office. The good folk of Northampton then thought surely they would lose their neighbor. They did not. The Vice-President-elect went to Washington and rented a suite in the Willard Hotel, but the vans never backed up to the doors of the Northampton house. It remained Vice-President Coolidge's home.

When fate ordained that Calvin Coolidge be vested with the Presidency, the White House his official residence, things looked somewhat dubious for the modest home in Northampton. History has recorded the President's attitude. His widowed mother-in-law occupies the half-house, but it is still Home Sweet Home to the Coolidge family.

The folk of Northampton are the President's neighbors. He is jealous of his association with them and the affection is reciprocated. This regard for his people is reflected more eloquently perhaps than in any other way by a letter he wrote to James Lucey, a town cobbler, with whom he often talked before going to Washington the first time. Lucey, whose quaint philosophy often had helped the President, received this word just after his "Cal" became President:

"Not often do I see you or write you but I want you to know that if it were not for you I should not be here and I want to tell you how much I love you. Do not work too much now and try to enjoy yourself in your well-earned hours of ——"

CARPENTERS AND FAMILIES, FRIENDS, ENJOY AN OUTING

The carpenters of Charleroi and vicinity, their wives, families and friends enjoyed one of the greatest days of the year in the annual outing held at Oakland Park, Saturday, August 2.

The park was well filled with happy picnickers, there being over two-hundred present and a happy day was spent in various sports, the program of races and the baseball game being the features.

Harry Ray of McKean avenue, was in charge of the sports program and the winners, events and prizes resulted as follows:

Broad jump, won by J. Brown, who received a box of cigars; 25-yard dash, F. Lusk, first, and Roy Bush, second, $1.50 and $1; hop, step and jump race Jim Sutherland, hatchet; free for all 100-yard dash, won by Fred Smith, hammer; ladies' ball throwing contest, Mrs. J. Brown, beaded bag; race for girls under 12, Aruilla Rhodes, vanity case; ladies' race, Dorothy Bolander and Ruth Hatfield, stockings; ladies' race, Dorothy Swinnen, glasses; girls ball throwing contest, Ada Lusk, electric candle; men's race, Herman Rhodes, knife; baby race, Virginia Hazlett, prize $1.

The prizes were donated by a number of prominent Charleroi merchants, and ice cream and lemonade were served the picnickers at the park by the carpenters.

THINK REPARATIONS SETTLEMENT NEAR

London, August 4.—Great Britain believed a final settlement of the tangled reparations question, which has kept all Europe in anxiety since the theaty of Versailles was signed, is near as the Allied conference prepared to resume its sessions today.

The Big Seven of the conference prepared for a morning meeting as word was received that the German delegation had left Berlin for London in accordance with the invitation sent them by Saturday's plenary session.

The Germans are expected here tomorrow and probably will confer with Prime Minister MacDonald and the other leaders of the conference at once.
